INSTRUCTIONS

Step 1. Thread on wires approximately 7-8" long depending on your wrist size. The beading pattern merges in the middle and is then done in reverse until you get to the other end. When threading the initial design, use a ruler to check the length of the centre point and adjust the pattern as required ensuring it comes out at the correct length. Make sure you include clasps and end beads in your measurements. You can thread the colours to suit you.

Step 2. This particular bracelet has five strands, but you can do as few or as many as you like – depending on the style you are after. Join all of the strands onto a single loop at either end and add large silver bead caps on to tidy everything up.

Step 3. Finally add a clasp and charm to finish.
